NOTES

You can fry the eggs separately and serve on top of noodles if preferred!

If you feel like a lighter meal or lunch option, keep the vegetables fresh and toss through full cooled noodles along with the sauce to make a noodle salad.

1. COOK THE NOODLES

Bring a saucepan of water to a boil. Add noodles and cook according to packet instructions. Drain and rinse well with cold water to stop the cooking process.

2. PREPARE THE SAUCE

Combine 1/2 lime zest and juice with crushed garlic, 1 1/2 tbsp sugar, 2 tbsp soy sauce and 1 1/2 tbsp oil.

TIP You can use sesame oil and add grated ginger for more fragrance. Use a mix of dark soy sauce for a caramel flavour and colour as well as light soy sauce for saltiness.

3. PREPARE THE STIR FRY

Thinly slice lime leaves. Slice capsicum and spring onions (set aside tops for garnish). Set aside with bean shoots. Scramble eggs (see notes).

TIP You could add some firm or lite fried tofu for extra protein.

4. COOK THE STIR FRY

Heat a large pan or wok over high heat with oil (see notes). Pour in eggs and stir to cook. Add prepared vegetables and lime leaves. Cook for 3–4 minutes until tender. Toss in cooked noodles and sauce until well combined. Season with more soy sauce and pepper if needed.

TIP Add a splash of water if the noodles seem dry or sticky.

4. FINISH AND SERVE

Garnish noodles with reserved spring onion tops and serve with lime wedges.

TIP Top with crushed peanuts or sliced red chilli if you have some.
