Instead of making sushi rolls you can transform this dish into a bowl. Assemble bowl with rice, top with chicken and fillings. Slice nori sheets and use as garnish.

1. COOK THE RICE

Rinse sushi rice. Place in a saucepan with 650ml water. Cover and bring to a boil. Reduce heat immediately to medium-low. Cook, semi-covered, for 20 minutes until rice is tender and water is absorbed. Spread out on a tray to cool.

6P – use 975ml water for the rice.

TIP After the rice is cooked you can season it with sushi seasoning sauce if you have some. We stirred through 1 tbsp apple cider vinegar and 1 tsp sugar.

2. PREPARE THE FILLINGS

Cut cucumbers into batons. Julienne or grate carrots. Slice mango. Shred any larger pieces of chicken.

TIP You can add sliced avocado or sliced red capsicum if you have some.

3. ASSEMBLE THE ROLLS

Lay 1 nori sheet, shiny-side down, across a board (see notes). Wet fingers, spread a thin layer of cooled rice across sheet, leaving a strip on the far side uncovered. Lay fillings across rice, from one side to the other (see tip). Starting with the edge closest to you, wrap the nori around rice and fillings. Roll forward into a log, pressing gently. Repeat with remaining rolls.

TIP We spread an even strip of mayonnaise on top of the rice for a creamy texture.

4. FINISH AND SERVE

Slice sushi into 3cm slices (optional). Serve with soy sauce or condiments of choice.

TIP You can serve the sushi with mayonnaise or wasabi as well as soy sauce.
